

As a condition of using the public spectrum (especially without paying for it) television broadcasters should not be allowed copy protect the shows that they air.

There are already existing laws to prosecute thieves that copy materials and resell them. American citizens should be allowed to record the airwaves that come to their houses and replay it at anytime for personal use.